

1 CLAIMS

2 What is claimed is:

3 1. An integrated electronic contracting system, comprising:

4 a processor configured to:

5 receive eligible credit application data;

6 generate an electronic contract based on said credit application data;

7 restrict access to said electronic contract to authorized entities.

8
9 2. An electronic contracting method, comprising:

10 receiving eligible credit application data;

11 generating an electronic contract based on said credit application data;

12 restricting access to said electronic contract to authorized entities.

13
14 3. An computer program product having instructions embedded therein for causing

15 a computer system to implement electronic contracting, said product

16 comprising:

17 instructions for causing said system to receive eligible credit application

18 data;

19 instructions for causing said system to generate an electronic contract

20 based on said credit application data; and;